Special Thanks to . . .

Dr. Steve Simpson—If only every educator was as strong hearted to his students as you were to the seventeen kids in your 1996–97 freshmen English class. I hope you don't hold any grammatical errors I may have made in this book or any that come in the future against me.

Ed Milbourn—What can I say? I couldn't have done it without you. There is not much more I can say than that. Thank you

Marshall Mathers—Thank you so much for showing me that a kid stuck in a dead; end life is worth saving, and the only one that could do that was myself. I just had to seize my moment the minute I owned it.

Kris and John Kelleher—My two older brothers—the two of you are my best friends and without the two of you I don't think I could have survived this life. Thank you for keeping me together.

Elizabeth Cavette—I loved you the best I could. I made mistakes in the worst way and I am sorry. Thanks for staying by my side through the tough years. If you ever need me, you know how to find me.

Erin Church—If only we lived closer and had more time together; who knows. I don't know how to thank you or even if there are thanks in order, but thank you anyway. Always remember the cruise.

Officer Jason Greenspain—I wish every cop in this world could take after you. Maybe people will stop hating the men and women in blue. You're a good man and the only cop I call a friend. Keep it up man, and thanks.

Nick Tyack—You were the first person I ever told about my book. I know we're not the best of friends, but you inspired me by the talk we had in Nicole Smith's house—to keep going no matter what anybody says. I dedicate this to you most of all. Thanks for the advice. I owe you one.

Mom and Dad—Just thanks.
